DUAL EXHIBIT AT ART CENTER

On August 3rd Marion Art Center will open a dual exhibit featuring the paintings of Richard Grosvenor and the sculpture of Jeanne Millet Marshall. Both are New England artists. Richard Grosvenor teaches painting, art and architecture at St. George's School in Middleton, Rhode Island, and Jeanne Marshall, who grew up in the Berkshires, is a member of the Cambridge Art Association and the Association of New England Sculpters. The public is cordially invited to see and enjoy this interesting exhibition during the hours of 2 to 4, Tuesday thru Saturdays, and on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12 noon.

REGISTRATION AT ORRHS FOR NEW STUDENTS

Principal Donald N. Gavin of Old Rochester Regional High School announced that parents of students who have moved into the community since the close of the school year and who will be entering grades 7 through 12 are urged to call the guidance department at 758-3745 and make an appointment to register their children. Early registration will be a matter of mutual benefit in making possible proper assignment to classes and in procuring records from the last school attended.

Residents in Rochester may call Enterprise 5296; no charge is made to the calling party for Enterprise calls.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY STARTS CARRIAGE SHED FUND DRIVE

The fund-raising committee of the Mattapoisett Historical Society has announced a full-scale drive to raise money for the Carriage Shed, the new building the Society is planning to erect in the rear of the present museum. The sum of $5000 has already been acquired from a bequest in the will of Miss Gertrude Dexter, formerly of Mattapoisett. As the building will cost approximately twice that, a matching sum of $5000 is the goal of the fund-raising committee during its drive throughout the month of August.

Tentative plans call for a two story building facing Baptist Street, with carriage shed doors across the front, a space in the center open to the roof, and a wide gallery on all four sides of the second floor. The building will be designed to harmonize with the present church building and will be connected with it.

The Carriage Shed will house the 1822 fire engine, carriages and sleighs, the town's unique antique highway equipment, and other local relics. But the new building will feature antique farming equipment and tools. By doing so, it stands a chance of becoming the outstanding museum of oldtime agricultural implements in Southeastern New England.

Plans call for a part of the gallery to exhibit a row of old time shops and rooms with their tools and articles--carpenter's shop, shoemaker' shop, spinning and weaving room, etc. In one part of the building will be displayed maritime and whaling articles too large for the present museum.

The Carriage Shed Fund-Raising Committee consists of Mr. Charles Mendell, chairman; Mrs. Gertrude Fietz, secretary; Mr. George Bradley, Mrs. Lorraine Bryant, Mrs. Murray DeCoffe, Mr. Giles Dunn, Miss Dorothy Fox, Mr. Percy Frowenfeld, Mrs. Carroll Harrington and Mrs. David Todd.

PICKLE GROWERS WITHDRAW FROM A-TEAM

The District has been advised by Mr. Frank Murphy, Massachusetts Division of Employment Security, that the Michigan pickle growers scheduled to meet with A-Team groups in northern Massachusetts recently did not appear. As a result of the actions of the farmers in connection with this program, a conference of executives in the office of the Division of Employment Security elected to take no further steps in connection with the program, feeling that the Commonwealth could no longer be a party to further expense or contribute to the disappointment and misleading of the young people who had signed for participation.

Congressman Keith's office reported to the District coordinator that all of the growers had now withdrawn from the program but that Mr. Fornos, Coordinator for the U. S. Secretary of Labor, would attempt to help any individuals who were badly in need of work by reason of the collapse of the A-Team program.

The District acknowledges that the U. S. Department of Labor and the Massachusetts Division of Employment Security have cooperated in every respect to bring this program to fruition, and that no responsibility attaches to the governmental agencies in connection with its failure.

150 Years Ago The War of 1812

The British Attack

In the late summer of 1814 the two British warships stepped up their night attacks on the Mattapoisett waterfront. Fortunately there exists a letter giving not only a description of one of these attacks, but indications of the many alarms and firings that were taking place day after day and night after night. The letter was written by Mrs. Willis, the young wife of Squire Willis, who lived in the large house at the foot of Pearl Street, now owned by Mrs. Willis Monroe. The

Mrs. Willis writes her sister who had recently moved to New York:

September 7, 1814

"You observe I am incapable of writing a connected letter, my mind is so confused with the various cares of my family and the hourly expectation of the barges (from the warship) which are almost every day seen cruising around our shores that I can with difficulty write intelligibly. We have had the Nimrod anchored in plain sight from our door when she sent her barges in to Wareham, have often left our houses in the night sent the children away, have no assistance from men in such alarms. They are taken up in making defense. Men Ride in from all Quarters

"The women and children from all quarters in the streets and running from house to house to enquire into the cause of the alarm. The men from the Hammond neighborhood and from N. Briggs's come down with guns. After being kept in suspence and dreadful apprehension nearly 3/4 of an hour they ventured to send a boat from two Nantucket wood coasters who were fearful of coming til the great guns had ceased firing.

Landing on the Neck

"A few days previous to this two barges were seen chasing a boat in back of the neck. (There were many attempted landings on the Neck.) The signal was set on Captain Haskell's house, the guns discharged and a man came running his horse with word that 200 men had landed on the neck. The soldiers from this place marched down, the large guns, and drum, it was thought prevented their landing. The barges came so near that the dress of the men was very plain to be seen. How many more fals allarms we may have I know not, or how soon we may have a more serious one is only known by the Wise Disposer of all events."

Nor do we know how long through the fall these attacks continued before peace was declared in February, 1815.

DRY CLEANING - FINISHED LAUNDRY - SHIRTS
BY HATHAWAY LAUNDRY, INC.

At Rochester's Raynor Gifford Memorial Field the Rochester Royals defeated the Marion Cubs 15 to 3 with Jeff Gingras the winning pitcher.

Thursday games - At Mattapoisett Center School field the Mattapoisett Blues defeated the Marion Cubs 6 to 3 behind Mark Breton, the Blues' rookie hurler. Although this game was much closer than the score indicates it was a good job well done by Breton & Company.

At Raynor Gifford Field the Rochester Royals all but eliminated the Marion Eagles from the championship contention in defeating them 2 to 0 behind Kevin Knight's 2 hitter. The Eagles, with 3 losses, will need help from the rest of the league to win as they face the Royals only once more this season.

At Washburn Memorial Field the Mattapoisett Reds and the Mattapoisett Greens game is under protest and no decision has been reached by the Grievance Committee at this writing. Decision will be reported when made.

Rochester can clinch the Championship and take home the Warren "Warpie" Doane Memorial Trophy for the first time if they win 2 of the 4 games they must play. The trophy now in the hands of the Mattapoisett Greens, last year's champions, is polished and ready to go. Will it be Rochester or the Marion Eagles who abscond with it? May the best team win.

LIVING WITH YOUR HEART

If the human brain, like a SCUBA diver, could be supplied with reserve oxygen, strokes might never happen.

But such is not the case. Minute by minute, the blood must bring it a constant and adequate supply of oxygen.

When the blood supply to a part of the brain is lessened or blocked, the brain cells involved cannot work--and the patient may suffer a stroke.

Stroke, according to Dr. Charles Bonner, chairman of the Massachusetts Heart Association's Stroke Committee, is one of the most important of all diseases of the heart and circulation.

It causes a tremendous toll in death and disability--but today there is more hope than ever before for stroke patients.

Dr. Bonner declared that new methods of treatment are available, some to prevent stroke and others to lessen its damage.

Modern weapons in the doctor's arsenal include drugs, surgical procedures, improved diagnostic techniques, rehabilitation and retraining programs that help restore the patient to useful living.

Every year, through research--a generous amount of it made possible by your Heart Association--doctors are learning more about what causes stroke and how the trouble can be handled or even avoided.

Several things can interfere with the brain's blood supply and cause a stroke. The most common cause is a clot which blocks an artery feeding the brain. A cerebral artery can burst, causing a hemorrhage in the tissue. Pressure, from a brain tumor, for example, can also cause a stroke-like picture.

Within the last 15 years it has been proved that many arterial obstructions are not in the brain but in the neck, impeding the blood flow upward from the heart to the brain.

Knowing this, and given precise methods to pinpoint trouble spots, surgeons have devised ways to remove or bypass the obstruction. If the trouble is a buildup of sludge that narrows a neck artery, surgeons now can open the vessel and clean it out. If the problem is an obstructing clot it can often be removed

If the artery wall itself is damaged past repair, surgeons can replace the damaged area with a synthetic substitute.

Great progress has been made in the past decade. Continued research is expected to open new avenues toward the prevention of stroke.

In the meantime, much can be done to return
